

From

The New Zealand History Collection

Access award-winning New Zealand history and biography anywhere, anytime and on any device.

One authoritative resource of life on these islands, from earliest beginnings to present day.

‘It is not just an exceptionally good piece of work, but one that should help us come to a better recognition of how New Zealand arrived at where it is today and, therefore, how to work towards a better and more honest future.’ The NZ Herald acclaiming Vincent O’Malley’s The Great War for New Zealand as their Book of the Year

From

The New Zealand History Collection

The New Zealand History Collection provides complete online access to a major, authoritative resource – over thirty years of award-winning history and biography publishing from Bridget Williams Books. Comprising over ninety titles, with more to come, it includes recent additions to BWB’s history list such as the widely acclaimed Great War for New Zealand by Vincent O’Malley, as well as multiple works by late historian Judith Binney. Award-winning biography, such as Jessie Munro’s The Story of Suzanne Aubert, rounds out the Collection. Accessed via any modern web browser, the Collection provides subscribers with easy and uninhibited access to a rich cornucopia of New Zealand scholarship and knowledge.

Key features

- » Authoritative content: Over ninety award-winning and critically acclaimed publications, including both recent and out-of-print titles from over thirty years of BWB history and biography publishing: Vincent O’Malley’s The Great War for New Zealand, Ben Schrader’s The Big Smoke, Judith Binney’s Encircled Lands, and many, many more.
- » Flexible and fast: Optimised for mobile devices – reflecting the needs of today’s students and researchers – and viewable instantly using any modern web browser. Subscribers are given uninhibited access with no proprietary or complex technology getting in the way.
- » Connected books: Too often ebooks remain of poor quality, siloed within proprietary reading systems and isolated from wider web research workflows. BWB Collections addresses these frustrations head-on, including high-level production values, full, high-resolution illustrations, and new and exciting ways of book content linking.
- » A living resource: Subscriptions will help fund the future digitisation and addition of New Zealand history scholarship, ensuring critical out-of-print works will be available to students and general readers into the future.